Donor Privacy Policy

Level Up Philly respects the privacy of its donors. We do not sell, rent or trade donors' names or contact information, and we do not share them with any other organization except as needed to process gifts or as required by law. Donor information is used only to process gifts, send acknowledgments and receipts, and keep donors informed about our work. Donors may ask at any time to be removed from our mailing lists by contacting development@levelupphilly.org. Gifts made online are processed through a secure third-party payment provider, and Level Up Philly does not store credit card information.